Working in real estate brings with it many surprises. Sometimes we are lucky enough to come across homes with so many wow factors that our job becomes quite easy. This excellent property just happens to be one of those homes.

The exceptional features of this impressive home begin as you arrive at the front door on the generous front balcony. As we did, you will pause to take in the expansive district and mountain views. These original owners had the foresight to construct this home from galvanized steel both frames and roof trusses, and have perfectly maintained the property as you will see when you enter. The large sundrenched lounge room opens onto the balcony and adjoins the formal dining room. The brilliantly designed kitchen has been renovated using only the best inclusions, stone bench tops and also flows out onto the covered
